Block 4 ECE 1010/AP Lang
Peer Reviewing Norms (Created by the Class)

The peer reviewer should:

- go into the process with the intent of honesty and respectfulness
- focus on helping, instead of skimming over the work
- judge the writing, not the content
- have confidence in their ability to give meaningful feedback
- be brave about giving suggestions and sharing reactions to the work
- be honest and thoughtful
- work to remain unbiased towards ideas and people
- be respectful of the writer, including keeping confidentiality and avoiding discussion of the work with others outside of the peer review session
- focus on constructive criticism and making suggestions
- avoid getting hung up on grammar and spelling; focus on ideas, purpose, evidence, organization, and clarity

The writer should be brave and remain open to constructive criticism. See the reviewer as a helper in your quest to improve your written expression.

Both the reviewer and the writer should remember to assume the best of each other.
